

COLONEL NOW OUT TO HEW AMMON

Gives Progressive Conference Substitute for Armageddon Cry.

ROOSEVELT URGES FUSION ON HINMAN

Sulzer Men Cast Losing Vote, with Amos Pinchot to Quiz T. R.'s Candidate.

ROOSEVELT READY TO HEW 1914 AMMON

I wish to smite the enemy. I wish to strike with the sword of the Lord and of Gideon. I wish to hew Ammon hip and thigh. I want to do something effective, something that the enemy will feel.

I am not anxious to save our souls by passing nice little resolutions and by taking some action which will leave us performing in vacuo, while the bosses and their agents praise us for being consistent and running a straight ticket.

This new declaration, which seems destined to take the place of Colonel Roosevelt's famous Armageddon cry, was uttered by him yesterday in justifying before the state-wide conference of Progressives at the Hotel Astor his stand against Amos Pinchot, although a Republican, should be the Progressive party's candidate for Governor this fall.

There was much opposition from many of the five hundred men who attended the conference to the suggestion that the party abandon the idea of running a straight ticket. However, the argument of the Colonel made a considerable impression and, in the end, the delegates voted to support Pinchot to air their views fell rather flat.

The only definite action of the conference was the passage of a resolution of twenty-one "to consider and report to the committee on the platform and policy of the Progressive party in the approaching state campaign" to a future meeting of the state committee.

This committee was specifically empowered to confer with representatives of other organizations seeking to bring about the selection of well qualified candidates for delegates to the constitutional convention and to recommend to the state committee nominees for the fifteen delegates-at-large to this convention, "without reference to party affiliations."

Pinchot's Effort Sidelined.

The only real line-up of the day was over a resolution of Amos Pinchot, who made a speech against accepting Hinman or any other candidate not a Progressive for the election of Governor. The resolution provided "that no further action look be taken in the conference to bring about the selection of well qualified candidates for delegates to the constitutional convention and to recommend to the state committee nominees for the fifteen delegates-at-large to this convention, "without reference to party affiliations."

Sulzer's Friends ANGRY AT MOOSE

Will Make Another Effort to Have Him Heard at Conference.

Friends of ex-Governor Sulzer were angry at the action of the conference of the New York State Progressives in tabling a resolution inviting him to speak. They were of the opinion that his announcement of his intention to run for Governor was a mistake and that he should have waited until after the conference to make his move.

The resolution, which was introduced by Mr. Hiram, of New York, was defeated by a vote of 101 to 5. The committee on the resolution reported that it was "not in order."

The four who voted with Mr. Pinchot were Elias Marks, of New York; Arthur Kosma, of New York; and Philip C. Samuels, of Manhattan. The two latter were emissaries of William Sulzer, and got in on an attempt to get the conference to elect Sulzer to speak before it. He failed, however, and his efforts were greeted with hisses and "boos" for his candidate.

The committee of twenty-one, which will be in effect a steering body for the organization, is composed of William H. Childs, of Kings; Charles F. O'Connell, of New York; Francis W. Bird, of New York; Bainbridge Colby, of New York; Hugh Abbott, of St. Lawrence; Judge William L. Ransom, of New York; Ernest Cawcroft, of Chautauque; Howard J. Richardson, of Lewis; William M. Chadbourne, of New York; Horace S. Wilkinson, of Onondaga; J. J. Lesser, of New York; Chauncey J. Hamlin, of Erie; Walter A. Johnson, of Westchester; Benjamin C. Dunlop, of Westland; Hamilton Fish, Jr., of Putnam; Robert H. Elder, of Kings; Arthur Rathbun, of Monroe; August F. Schwarzer, of The Bronx; and John H. Taylor, of Kings. Theodore Douglas Robinson, chairman of the State Committee, is an ex-officio member.

Cheers Greet Colonel.

The Colonel made his entrance at 3 o'clock and was cheered for fifty seconds. He spoke slowly, reading what he had to say. He declared that he gave his views gladly as to what should be done in the present situation, because he believed in the idealism of the members of the party. He said the duty of the party was to render service, and the getting of office was merely an incident. Occasions arose, he declared, when it was their duty to join on a union platform with others whose views might not be so far advanced as their own.

All talk against fusion as an abstract proposition was beside the mark, as it depended upon whom the fusion was with and what were its objects. To fuse with the rank of old parties to destroy the bosses might be the highest possible duty. He continued:

I firmly believe that when a man of the character of Mr. Hinman, who was Mr. Hughes's right hand, man, who stands for aggressive honesty and who is openly against Mr. Barnes, no less than against Mr. Murphy, against the whole system of bi-partisan boss rule in this state, wages the gallant fight he is making we should heartily support him.

We should ask nothing of such a man except that on the immediate and vital issue of clean and honest government, and on the overthrow of both bosses and both machines and of the governmental corruption that has followed the dominance of those machines in our state politics, he shall represent our ideals.

We can join with him, all like him, in good faith to make an effective campaign against the inviolable government, against the rule of the state by two machines under the leadership of men whose activities we regard as pernicious to decency and cleanliness in public life; two machines which work together against the interests of the people, under a system which inevitably produces corruption in public affairs.

I believe our platform should be short and simple, embodying just the principles for which at this crisis in this state we stand; the principles which are vital in this particular contest. The vital piece of legislation most needed at present is an honest primary law, so framed that the boss and his agents do not control the appointment of the primary election officers. The boss cares less for the offices than he does for the contributions from wealthy men who desire favor or immunity; and the control of the primaries is vital to him. In the primary law the election officers should be chosen in some such way as in New Jersey, by the Civil Service Commission and the Justices.

Fusion for Heads.

It was indicated that the Colonel might favor fusion on the candidate for the United States Senate and not on other offices when he said, referring to the municipal elections:

"Last year there was no insistence on fusion before the men at the head of the ticket. The local contests were left to take care of themselves. I should suppose that the same course would be followed this year."

After a eulogy of the Progressives in the Legislature, the Colonel declared: "I have confidence not only in your integrity and your courage, but also in your wisdom and judgment. Whatever you wish to do and whatever course you will back and support to the best of my ability."

After the Colonel's speech, Henry Burger, of Kings, offered a resolution for a straight ticket, but it was smothered and referred to the committee of twenty-one.

TRADE COMMISSION MEASURE PASSES

First of Wilson's Three Anti-Trust Bills Wins in Senate by 53 to 16.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Aug. 5.—By a vote of 53 to 16 the Senate passed today the Trade Commission bill, the first of the three measures comprising the President's anti-trust programme. Twelve Republicans, of more or less Progressive tendencies, voted with the Democrats, and two Democrats, Senators Thomas and West, voted with the minority.

By a majority of similar proportions the Senate rejected all amendments with the exception of one offered by Senator Sulzberg, which required all corporations capitalized at more than $5,000,000 to maintain agents at Washington upon whom process might be served.

An amendment offered by Senator McCumber to define unfair competition was rejected by a vote of 16 to 45. An amendment proposed by Senator Lippitt authorizing the proposed Trade Commission to issue certificates of legality to minor combinations of corporations which might enable them to compete with their larger rivals was rejected, 14 to 47. Senator Reed's amendment defining unfair competition received the largest vote of any offered for that purpose, but was defeated, 29 to 33. The Pomerene amendment, providing for a broad court review of the orders of the commission, was again defeated, 27 to 28.

At the opening of the debate today Senator Brandegee presented a petition signed by W. A. Marble, president of the Merchants' Association of New York, asking that anti-trust legislation be postponed.

When the last roll on the Trade Commission bill was called the Senate took up for consideration the Clayton anti-trust bill, the second of the administration measures. This will be kept before the Senate until it is passed.

Sulzer, who regards himself as the "only common Progressive" in the race for the Governorship, was for going into the conference and asking for the floor. He was told that the better way would be to have a resolution introduced at the conference, inviting him and Harvey D. Hinman to address the conference. This he submitted. The former Governor would not discuss the action of the conference yesterday, but promised to have something "very interesting to say" to-day.

He will devote all the rest of the time between now and the primaries in campaigning throughout the state. He has just returned from a tour of the Western tier counties, where he addressed, he estimated, 75,000 people in the nine days he was away.

He made twenty-seven speeches in all, and will start on another tour Friday. This time he will go to the central and northern counties, where he is expected, on returning, to speak in the southwestern counties.

ARMY HORSES IN FIRE

Second Blaze in Four Days Threatens West Point Stables.

Highland Falls, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Horses and mules were routed out of the artillery detachment's stables on the grounds of the Military Academy, at West Point, to-day, when a second fire broke out there. Corporal Proctor discovered the flames and fired three shots to give the alarm. The same stable was gutted four days ago.

The soldiers responding formed a bucket brigade and extinguished the blaze, which was working toward the stables. Horses and mules were led out through the smoke. A cigarette is believed to have started the fire.

AUSTRIAN CASHIER HELD

Man Accused of Being Defaulter and Fleeing Justice.

Maurice Maldi, formerly an assistant cashier in the Anglo-Austrian Bank at Trieste, Austria, now living at the Broadway Central Hotel, was arrested in the Tombs Police Court yesterday. He is accused of having fled from his home city, where he is wanted on charges of grand larceny and forgery.

Magistrate Cornell held him without bail for examination Wednesday. He was also held under $5,000 bail for his appearance in Federal Sessions on the charge of carrying a loaded revolver.

Blast Opens Cascade Tunnel.

Seattle, Aug. 5.—The $2,000,000 Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul tunnel through the Cascade Mountains, which is 12,000 feet long, and which will reduce the altitude of the crossing 443 feet, was broken through by a blast yesterday and men from East and West clasped hands through the gap. The tunnel will save four miles of the old route and avoid the enormous snowfall of the summit.

CROWDS WATCHING TRIBUNE'S WAR BULLETINS.

WAR BEATS BASEBALL

Tribune Bulletins, Fresh from Conflict, Draw Crowds.

The Tribune's bulletin board was a focusing point for downtown crowds all day yesterday. At many times during the afternoon war news literally routed baseball as an attraction, and the prominence of the new Tribune service more than had its reward in the breathless attention given the dispatches.

From now on the old system of hourly or half-hourly bulletins will be discarded. Each cable message as it arrives in the Tribune office from correspondents in London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna will be sent direct to the bulletin board. Thus downtown New York is kept informed of events in Europe's war centres within a period ranging from a few hours to a few minutes of their occurrence.

Extra arrangements have been made for a continuous relay of news from the scenes of conflict, as well as from the great capitals. With special correspondents now on the way to Europe, the Tribune bulletin service will be come a feature of the war period.

NEAR THAW'S WIFE, MRS. WHITE MOVED

Faversham's Exchanged Quarters with Architect's Widow on the Olympic.

William Faversham, the actor, and his wife, Miss Julie Opp, who arrived here yesterday from Southampton by the White Star liner Olympic, exchanged rooms, when two days out of port, with Mrs. Stanford White, widow of the architect who was killed by Harry Kendall Thaw.

The occasion for the exchange of rooms was the chance assignment made by the booking clerks in the London office, who gave Mrs. White a state-room opposite the one given to Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

The situation did not disturb Mrs. Thaw, and when offers were made to transfer her to another deck, she protested, saying she would keep the room for which she had paid.

Mrs. White, who is said to have been annoyed by the propinquity of the divorced wife of her husband's slayer, was unable to find a room to her liking. Mr. and Mrs. Faversham heard of her predicament, however, and volunteered to exchange rooms.

Mrs. Thaw, who was accompanied by her dancing partner, Jack Clifford, said she could go to Atlantic City to spend a few days with her son, before taking him to Pittsburgh to remain there until fall. She said she would give the greater part of her time to supervising the decorations of her new home in Pittsburgh.

FIREBUG USES BABY CARTS

Perambulators Found to be Centres of Two Blazes.

Baby carriages were used by incendiaries yesterday morning to start three fires in the five-story apartment houses at 444 and 584 C. Combustible material was placed in the baby carts, and the fire was started by matches. The loss was estimated at $1,000.

In each case the baby carriages were found to be the centres of the blaze. The Fire Department is investigating.

"HANDS OFF HINMAN!"—T. R. ADVICE TO SUFFRAGISTS

Roosevelt Stock Drops Many Points in Opinion of Mrs. Blatch After Her Interview and His Speech at the Progressive Convention.

Colonel Roosevelt granted an interview to Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch yesterday, and in the course of it he gave her a piece of advice.

"It will be good tactics for the suffragists," he said, "to keep their hands off Hinman."

Mrs. Blatch merely smiled, but later she gathered the reporters around her and relieved her mind.

"The suffragists," she observed, "won't keep their hands off anything or anybody."

Roosevelt stock went down a good many points in the mind of the president of the Women's Political Union after that interview, which took place in the parlor of the Hotel Le Marquis, in East 31st St. The Progressive leader told Mrs. Blatch with many smiles that he was delighted to see her. But his responses to the pointed questions she put were, she complained afterward, "not satisfactory."

Colonel Roosevelt had stipulated that Mrs. Blatch might come alone, but she took Miss Caroline Lexow with her. The Colonel had Miss Frances Kellor, representing the Progressive women, at his side during the interview.

Mrs. Blatch and Miss Lexow took with them a suffrage plank for the Progressive platform. Mr. Roosevelt handed the plank over to Miss Kellor and smiled his famous "Rooseveltian smile." Then Mrs. Blatch brushed the

CARRAJAL AGREES WITH CARRANZA

In Accord on Turning Government Over to Constitutionalists.

Mexico City, Aug. 5.—Peace for Mexico City at least now seems a certainty. The council of war, consisting of 112 generals, decided to-night upon the unconditional surrender of the city to the Constitutionalists.

President Carrajal and General Venustiano Carranza, head of the Constitutional movement, to-day reached a full agreement concerning the turning over of the government to the Constitutionalists. It is expected that an early date. Hostilities were suspended to-day.

At the close early this afternoon of a conference between Provisional President Carrajal and General Velasco, the Minister of War, the official announcement was made that Carranza would grant the President's request concerning guarantees, and that a peace pact probably would be ratified at a cabinet meeting to be held soon.

Provisional President Carrajal and General Velasco began their conference at noon to-day, and discussed the question whether it would be better to turn over the capital to the Constitutionalists unconditionally or to require the entry by force of arms. In political circles it was declared that General Velasco was in favor of meeting Carranza's demand to evacuate the city.

A proclamation by General Robles and General Dominguez, personal representative of Carranza, was published in all the morning newspapers to-day and created a good impression. The document guaranteed the peaceful entry of the conquering army.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Aug. 5.—A strong force of Constitutionalists occupied the city to-day. The Hamburg-American liner Antonia, which for several days has been under detention at the custom house wharf at Tampico, to search for Dr. Villa Nages, the Mexican Vice Consul, who was charged with the murder of a man, was released on the return of the soldiers.

Before the soldiers began their search the captain was summoned to the custom house and arrested. The captain of the Antonia later was released on the return of the soldiers.

It is believed Dr. Villa Nueva and his companion slipped over the side of a boat at Vera Cruz, and were drowned. They were carrying a large quantity of dynamite, and their bodies were found in a motor launch.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Rear Admiral Badger to-day was instructed to direct the immediate release of the Antonia.

Chihuahua, Mex., Aug. 5.—General Villa to-day trained all of his artillery, fifty-eight fieldpieces and two four-inch guns, for Torreón, commanded by General Felipe Angeles. The artillery will move toward Mexico City via Saltillo. Villa's cavalry and infantry have been mobilized at Torreón and will join the movement, attacking independently of General Carranza. Villa has let it be known that he purposes to establish civil instead of military government in Mexico. In a conference with unofficial representatives of the Carranza government held at Chihuahua, Villa is understood to have accepted terms for peace which Carranza had rejected.

The trial of Vincenzo Accena and his wife, Katharina, charged with taking part in the kidnapping of eight-year-old Frank Longo May 13, which began yesterday in General Sessions, has brought out the testimony of the boy's father, who described paying a ransom of $700 for his return. The witness said he had received threatening letters from the band, many of them demanding $5,000.

WAR CAUSES SUICIDE

De Neuville, Broker, Despondent Over Exchange Closing.

F. August de Neuville, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, ended his life yesterday morning at 40 Franklin Place, Flushing, by inhaling gas. According to his son, Robert, the closing of the Stock Exchange and the financial unrest caused by the war led to the suicide.

Mr. de Neuville was born in Frankfurt-on-Main, Germany, fifty-six years ago. He came to this country in 1879, and for several years lived in Manhattan. He had offices at 111 Broadway.

He leaves a wife, a son, and two daughters. Mrs. C. Wynne, of Montclair, and Mrs. Rudolph Christ, of Basle, Switzerland.

NEW BUTLER HIRED; JEWELRY VANISHES

Chautauquans Leave Their Rooms Unlocked—Fleeing Employee Brought Back.

Stony Brook, L. I., Aug. 5.—Members of the Stony Brook Chautauqua may have forgotten the text which the head of the society, the Rev. John F. Carson, D. D., pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn, has preached at some of the meetings, for they left sundry treasures in the sixty rooms occupied by them here, and a thief, in the form of a newly engaged butler, is charged, broke in and stole.

The butler, whose name is said to be Eugene Adams, was employed a few days ago. He seemed honest and the members never thought of locking up their jewelry when they went to a meeting yesterday afternoon, leaving their rooms unguarded. When they returned they found that all the rooms had been visited and that articles of value had been removed.

Deputy Sheriff John Muir was notified. He learned that a man answering to Parsons's description had hired an Jealous Husband Almost Includes Baby in Tragedy at Home.

SLAYS WOMAN WITH CHILD IN HER ARMS

She Was Preparing to Return to Parents When Shot—Neighbor Escapes.

Madison, N. J., Aug. 5.—Grazed by jealousy, George Johnson, forty-five years old, shot and killed his wife in their home here to-day. The wife, who had lived here a year, had frequently quarrelled owing to the jealous disposition of the husband. Last night the couple had a row, and, according to Mrs. Draper, Johnson furnished a revolver and threatened to kill his wife. She managed to get hold of the revolver and to quiet her husband.

Mrs. Monica Johnson, the murdered wife, was twenty-six years old. Besides the little boy, Edwin, which Mrs. Johnson held in her arms when she was murdered, the couple have another son, George, five years old, who was not in the house when the double tragedy occurred.

WOMEN TRAMPLED IN BANK RIOT

400 Depositors of Closed Private Institution Get Into Fight in Hall.

Four hundred men and women, depositors in the private bank of Max Kobre, held a meeting last night at the Tarrytown Lyceum, which developed from a mere argument as to the best means of getting their money from the bank to a riot that necessitated the calling of reserves from two police stations.

The confusion in the fire alarm, and sent a call to Bellevue Hospital for two ambulances.

The excitement started when Rabbi Samuel Abrahamson accused a man who had just said of their money from the 25 per cent of being in league with the bankers.

"Who are you?" he demanded of the speaker.

"I'm a depositor in the bank," was the answer.

The rabbi then asked the man to produce a bankbook. This he did. But the bankbook did not seem to satisfy the rabbi. Then some one started a fight, and the crowd poked in the little hall joined in.

Women were shoved about in the riot until they fainted. Their husbands sustained the fight and increased the excitement by trying to protect them. Men and women were trampled and bruised in trying to escape from the hall by the stairway. Screams of "fire" and "police" came from the building.

One man, standing near a fire escape, vaulted through a window and escaped. A policeman, Patrolman Roos, of the Clinton st. station, responded, but was unable to fight his way into the room. He sent in a call to the Clinton and Madison stations for aid.

Several fire companies arrived with the reserves, and the men forced their way into the room and quieted the crowd. Several required the attention of ambulance surgeons, but none was seriously hurt.

Until a late hour last night a crowd of more than 200 lingered about the doors of the failed bank, 41 Canal st. Men and women peeped and beat upon the walls in a frenzy.

The affairs of the bank are now in the hands of Eugene L. Richards, State Superintendent of Banking, for regulation.

Magistrate Adjourns to Examine Violent Victims.

Magistrate Levy, in Harlem police court, yesterday adjourned court on the solicitation of Dr. Jackson R. Campbell, physician at the Harlem prison, to examine personally some of the alleged drug "fiends" who have become violent since their supplies have been cut off.

The magistrate was told of the pleas from the cells and of the necessity of hospital rather than prison treatment for such cases.

Rockville Centre, Long Island, Aug. 5.—Any one having a first class uplift for sale will find it to his advantage to communicate with the authorities of this Long Island hamlet. They are in the market.

Mr. de Neuville's need of some such article was exemplified recently, when 50 per cent of its police force of six were jailed on burglary charges, but the village is not inclined to rest on its laurels. It has gone in for ballot box stuffing, assorted burglary and lesser crimes.

At a school district meeting the night before the recent election 577 votes were counted by the election tellers. When the results were in 625 votes were found. Some one good at mathematics figured the difference to be 48, and there the matter stands.

The election was close, and it is believed that it will be declared void by the state educational authorities, to whom appeal will be made. The announced result was 315 to 310. Francis G. Hooley was victorious over Donald Fraser.

TRIAL DIVORCE FAILS

Wife Asks That Decree Be Obtained Be Set Aside.

A trial divorce was found unsatisfactory and terminated in the Supreme Court yesterday by an order signed by Justice Ford.

Mrs. Annie Elbin, according to testimony accepted by Henry A. Gillespie, referee, had divorced her husband, John Elbin, a steward on the Berlin, March 20, 1911, but had lived with him afterward. He had provided for her and their child, but she had obtained the divorce at his request.

Mrs. Elbin says in her affidavit: "I told him I loved him and did not care to get a divorce. He said that after two years he would have sufficient money so that we could live together in Germany and marry again there."

Before the two years were over Mrs. Elbin petitioned that the decree be set aside.

The rabbi then asked the man to produce a bankbook. This he did. But the bankbook did not seem to satisfy the rabbi. Then some one started a fight, and the crowd poked in the little hall joined in.

Women were shoved about in the riot until they fainted. Their husbands sustained the fight and increased the excitement by trying to protect them. Men and women were trampled and bruised in trying to escape from the hall by the stairway. Screams of "fire" and "police" came from the building.
